As it reads now, the specimen might have come from anywhere, and might not have been a breeding record, whereas Forrest and Beckwith are quite clear that the shot female was about to lay, and had almost certainly laid other eggs recently, in a near-by nest, so this is a Shrops confirmed breeding record, and needs listing as such. "With regard to the Ellesmere gannet on 08/08/1992, it transpired that it had been picked up grounded near Wrexham and was subsequently released on The Mere. Since it didn't arrive in Shropshire under its own steam the Records Committee considered it to be a Welsh bird. I thought we had published a correction but, in a brief search annual reports, I couldn't find it. Maybe we just notified members in the Bulletin".
